

ABSTRACT

A system and method to provide financial rewards and other incentives to users of personal transaction devices are described. Multiple transactions between a personal transaction device and one or more vendors connected to the personal transaction device are processed. Vendor incentives for each of the vendors and user incentives for a user connected to the personal transaction device are then determined based on each transaction of said plurality of transactions.